Instructional Focus:

Writing – Students write for a variety of purposes and audiences with sophistication and complexity appropriate to the grade level.

Listening – Students listen for a variety of purposes appropriate to the grade level.

Speaking – Students speak for a variety of purposes and audiences with sophistication and complexity appropriate to the grade level.

Performance Task

1. Begin the activity by asking students to name some things that are important to them. Lead the discussion into important things at home, at school, with friends. Ask them to share why these things are important.
2. Continue the lesson by asking students to tell about situations where they had to make choices. How did they make their decision? Why was it easy? Hard? What were the results?
3. Ask students to write a story about something that was important to them and a choice they had to make. Make sure they include what happened as a result of their choice – good or bad.
4. Close the lesson with a reminder that what is important to us individually, may not always be as important to someone else. Stress the need to respect the opinions and beliefs of others.
